

Society for Technical Communication

Rochester Chapter

Welcome to STC Rochester!

Founded in 1958, the Rochester Chapter of the Society for Technical Communication is based in upstate New York. Although most of our members live and work in the metropolitan Rochester area, we are geographically diverse, with members living in several surrounding counties. We are an active and innovative community: In 2011, we received the STC Pacesetter Award, and we were named an STC Community of Excellence.

STC Rochester serves the needs of its members by:

- Promoting professionalism and the exchange of information among its members
- Providing educational opportunities for both members and non-members
- Educating the community on the value of technical communication

Our membership includes writers, editors, graphic designers, business owners, documentation managers, project leaders, educators, instructional developers, and students. With more than 8,000 members worldwide, STC is the largest professional organization devoted to the advancement of the theory and practice of technical communication.

Our members provide a wide range of technical communications services in a variety of industries, such as computer hardware and software, photographic imaging, medicine and health care, telecommunications, community service, and education.

Each spring, we host Spectrum, the premier technical communications conference in Upstate New York, drawing participants from Canada, the Northeast, and the Midwest. In 2012, we will be holding our 53rd Spectrum conference, April 22 and 23, at Rochester Institute of Technology.

For more information about STC Rochester, contact Lori Meyer, membership manager, at membership@stc-rochester.org. We look forward to welcoming you to a chapter event soon.

Stay in Touch With Us

On the web: <http://www.stc-rochester.org>

Twitter: @stc_rochester

Facebook: STC_Rochester

My STC: <http://www.stc.org/mystc> (group: Rochester)